

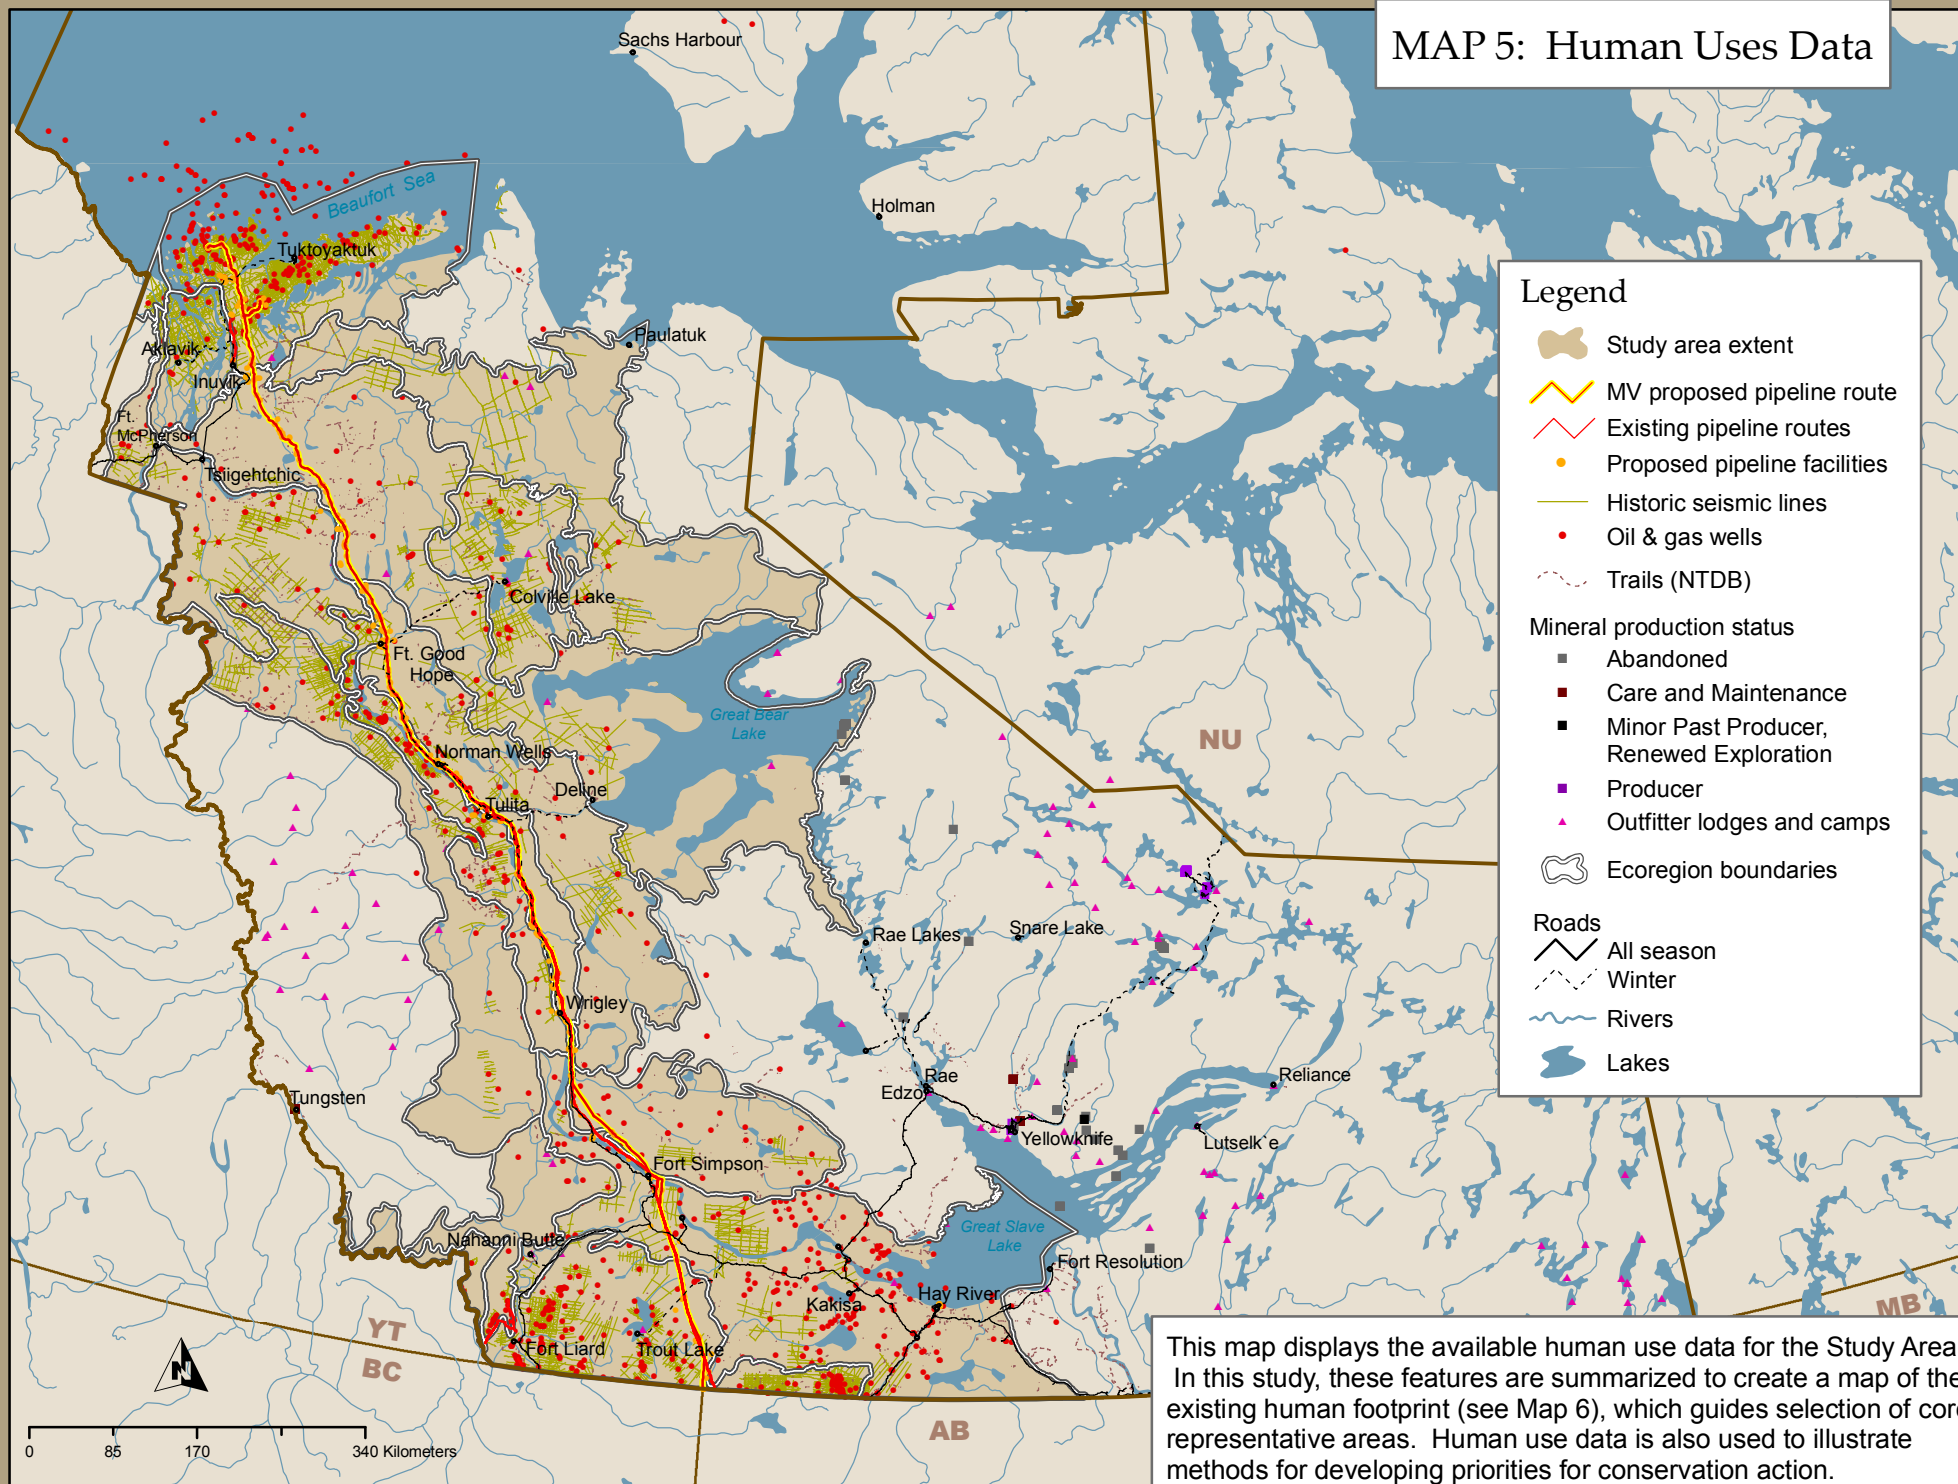

MAP 5: Human Uses Data

This map displays the available human use data for the Study Area. In this study, these features are summarized to create a map of the existing human footprint (see Map 6), which guides selection of core representative areas. Human use data is also used to illustrate methods for developing priorities for conservation action.